President-Elect Tim Brown rang the bell at 7:30 AM to open the February 17th meeting and announced that President Mary Cockley was a little under the weather. Tim thanked Jill and the Five Crowns staff for their service. Willis Longyear led the invocation, which was followed by Jeff Heilesen leading the Pledge. Our song leader today was Don Norman.

February – World Understanding Month

Chuck Hirsch entertained us with some humor!

The bones of Chuck's joke: The parish priest discovered a way to justify saying a Mass for Muldoon's deceased dog.

Fines

Fine Master John Hedlund's was looking for Happy Dollars today. Caroline Babott volunteered $50 because she no longer works and especially does not miss tax season hours. Richard Green paid $30 because he is happy about changing jobs. Tom Egan announced that he bought General Motors for $10 and thus no money left over for Happy Dollars! Jeff Heieson just returned from a week in Florida where he combined a business trip with a visit with his brother so he paid $30. All members who forgot their Rotary pins were asked to pay $3. Since Tim Brown is a "Pretend President" today and not fineable he bragged about Arizona State beating UCLA for the 1st time since 1994.

Zamorano and the Flying Scotsman

Mark Barbour,

John Hedlund introduced Mark Barbour, Curator of the International Printing Museum in Carson, CA. Mark has spoken to us several time and told of the history of the printing press and if you visit it you will see a real-to-life colonial printer practicing his craft and hear how printing changed the lives of writers and thinkers like Mark Twain and Ben Franklin. Objects on display include antique printing machines and early printed documents. Many of the people working here, from the printers to the tour guides, are worth the visit just to meet them. Today Mark told us about Don Agustin V. Zamorano. Agustín Vicente Zamorano (1798 – 1842), provisional Governor of Alta California. Zamorano was born in Spanish Florida and entering the army May 1, 1821 as a cadet. He served in Mexico then came to in California in 1825 as Secretary of State to Governor of Alta California to the governor, José María Echeandía. He served until 1831, during which he would create letterhead from woodblocks and type, without a printing press. Zamorano served as provisional Governor of Alta California, in the north, with José María de Echeandía, serving in the south. Zamorano is most famous for being the first person to bring a printing press to California, a wood-frame Ramage press purchased in Boston. He set up a print shop in Monterey in the summer of 1834 and published the first books in California, and, as secretary to the Mexican Governor, printed early proclamations of Mexican governors. The first book printed was Manifiesto a la Republica Mejicana in 1835. The Manifesto granted amnesty to the people of California after the recent rebellion. It was preceded only by sixteen-page Reglamento (1834) and about a half-dozen broadsides and sheets. He also offered to provide "equitable prices with gentlemen who may wish to establish any periodical," but nobody took up his offer. In total, he printed eleven broadsides, six books, six miscellaneous works, and numerous letterheads. The first newspaper wasn't printed until U.S. Commodore Robert F. Stockton found Zamorano's old press and Walter Colton, chaplain of the U.S. frigate Congress and former editor of the Philadelphia North American started the Monterey Californian.

Catalina Weekend

Willis Longyear reminded members to save the dates of May 15th through May 17th, in anticipation of finalization of plans for club members and spouses or significant others to take the boat from Newport Beach to Catalina to attend the annual Silent Movie Benefit on Saturday, and return home on Sunday. Plenty of time will be available on all three days for enjoying all sorts of island activity in Avalon and out on the Island, interspersed with dinner at the Longyear house Friday night, attending the silent movie, "The Black Pirate", starring Douglas Fairbanks Jr., followed by dinner in town on Saturday, and returning to Newport on Sunday.

We'll be putting together details in the next couple of weeks on where to get boat tickets, a short list among the many hotels to call for reservations, how to get theater tickets, and a listing of some of the many other activities available during the time we'll be there.

It will be helpful for us to know who among you might be interested in embarking on this adventure on the high seas -- so give us call, at 949-675-1180, or tap our email wlongyear@gmail.com, with your early thoughts on the subject.
